Paragraph at page 12, lines 8-14:

The process of matching attributes of data records to rules is repeated for all the data records in step 230. Each data record is compared to each of the rules accumulated to that point. Data records with attribute values that match none of the accumulated rules are used to form new rules. Data records with attribute values that match those of a rule already accumulated have their conclusion/action added to those of the matching rule. Comparing each data record to the accumulated rules continues ~~until~~ from step 222:
